Would you believe . . . a Wilmington light department?

by Arlene Surprenant

An article authorizing the filing of a bill to allow Wilmington the possibility of establishing its own light department is in the works for April's annual town meeting.

At Monday's selectmen meeting, board members directed Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski to have town counsel draft the bill and bring it back to the board before going through town meeting and the legislative process. State Rep. James Miceli, who was present at the meeting, told selectmen "this is a real long shot, but I support you in this," and urged they get the "mechanics" started as soon as possible.

Later, Stapczynski explained that Wilmington is currently operating under a 1908 statute that allows Reading Municipal Light Dept.

(RMLD) to supply the town's electric needs. Because many citizens and industrial representatives have become dissatisfied with alleged discriminatory rate setting practices and other factors, the town has been looking at other options.

Stapczynski said it was his understanding that, in order to seek other electric sources, "we have to go back through the process of getting unencumbered, so to speak." And because of the "magnitude" of what we're about to do, explained Stapczynski, "we would like to have a town meeting vote to authorize this action."

Stapczynski expressed optimism that such a bill would pass, at the state level primarily because "we have good legislators working for us" and this is a "crucial issue" which has gained the support of other town managers and municipalities. The only threat to the bill's passage might come from strong lobby groups such as MMWEC (Mass. Municipal Wholesale Electric Co.).

According to preliminary studies, said Stapczynski, the town seems to have sufficient resources to run its own light department. The only problem he foresees is "the buy out costs" from RMLD. It could take several years to analyze the cost of the plan and go over it in court, he added.

"We have a myriad of options once we form our own department," explained Stapczynski, including generating our own electricity and buying from other sources.

With Halley's Comet making its once-in-three-quarters-of-a-century appearance, students in Wilmington schools have been studying the phenomenon. Last week, astronomer George Mumford, a Tufts professor, visited fifth grade classes at the Woburn Street School. Part of his presentation included the making of comet-like substance based on dry ice and other materials. He then exposed it to heat from a hair dryer, to demonstrate what happens when it nears the sun. Prof. Mumford is developing a workbook for elementary children concerning sky phenomena.

Residential tax rate $13-14?

Wilmington citizens this year can "hopefully" expect the residential tax rate will be between $13.10 and $14.00 and the industrial rate will be between $21.30 and $22.30, according to Principal Assessor Anthony Krzeminski.

Along with this, they can also expect their tax bills will reflect "a tremendous increase" in land values. As the residential rate is going down, he said, property assessment is going up. Last year, the residential rate was $19.09 and the industrial rate was $24.68.

At a tax classification public hearing Monday night, Krzeminski told selectmen his proposals will remain just that until final certified figures are received from the state and some adjustments are made on tax rates. Then it will be up to the board to vote on his proposals at a later date.

He pointed out the town is going into its fourth year since the initial re-evaluation in 1983 and "contrary to a lot of beliefs, 2 1/2 does work."

With new revaluation figures being "plugged in" this year, the tax base of the town will take an impressive jump. Part of this jump results from adjusted valuations of existing property, and part of it represents new construction. Last year's valuation was $631,328,942. This year's valuation is $934,442,935.

Industries in Wilmington, Krzeminski explained, are getting a "fair deal" with almost a 50-50 split in value between residential and commercial / industrial properties.

Jim Stewart pointed out that the goal of the selectmen is to keep the residential tax rate "at least" as close as possible to last year, adding, "I think we can feel pretty safe that will happen again this year."

Stapczynski heads roads task force

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski was named chairman of the Mass DPW (Dept. of Public Works) Task Force at a Mass Municipal Association meeting on Tuesday, January 14.

According to Stapczynski, the task force was formed to address traffic and safety problems common to state municipalities.

Stapczynski is looking forward to his new role and expects it will benefit Wilmington by focusing state attention on Ballardvale Street and other local problems.

Stapczynski met with Gov.

Michael Dukakis on Tuesday and anticipates meeting with DPW Commissioner Tierney and his key staff people within six weeks to begin organizational procedures.

The task force will meet four times a year.

Industrial developer may build sewer

There is a good chance that the River Park 93 Industrial Park on the Ipswich River in North Reading will be serviced by a sewer which will be constructed to connect with the Wilmington sewer system. The Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners and two engineers, representing Spaulding & Slye of Burlington agreed to explore the question in a meeting on January 9.

TOWN MEETING

WARRANT ARTICLES

Notice is hereby given that Articles for inclusion in the Warrant for the Annual Town Meeting to be held in April 1986, must be submitted to the Board of Selectmen, Wilmington Town Hall, no later than 4:30 p.m. February 14, 1986.

Chairman, Board of Selectmen

The engineers, H.W. Moore Associates of Boston have designed a sewer treatment plant on the North Reading shore of the proposed development. It will be able to handle 60,000 gallons of sewage a day, the commissioners were told.

But, because Reading's wells are "within the sphere of influence," and because there are other municipal wells near the river, the engineers are exploring other means of disposing of sewage. They have a treatment Reading DPW agreement. It is 6400 feet to a Reading sewer, which would go along Route 93 through Wilmington.

Nine acres (one and one-half buildings) of the development will be in Wilmington.

The two engineers mentioned the possibility that there could be a sewer in Wilmington as a possible alternative. Chairman George Allan suggested a consortium of various industrial firms, and some residential sites, to construct a sewer to connect with, say, Lowell Street. Lucci, and Avco, he said, would be interested and could contribute a share of the expense.

Commissioner Smith knew of other firms. Five buildings in the Concord Street - Fordham Road area are now owned by Hancock Insurance Company, Allan said. In a sort of aside, Allan said that Tewksbury's DeCarolis has agreed to put in a trunk system on Burlington Allan for his proposed development.

"All contributions will be gratefully accepted," he joked, a few minutes later. Commissioner Smith added that the consortium that put in a sewer system for Ballardvale Street spend three and one-half to four million dollars last year. "We are willing to help, 100 percent" he said. "We are trying to improve the system so that it will pay its own way."

Engineers More said Carter will explore possibilities.

Meet your town officials

The second "Meet Your Town Officials" sponsored by the Wilmington League of Women Voters will be held Thursday, January 23 from 8 to 10 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The public and their town officials will be able to meet and mingle in an informal, non-campaign setting.

Representatives from the town boards have been invited to give a two minute overview of their board's function plus present any current issues before them.

All Wilmington residents are encouraged to attend and voice their support and concerns directly to those whom they have chosen as decision makers.

Following the presentation, they will be available for sharing ideas with those attending.

Questions raised on water access to ice arena site

How will water be piped to the skating arena which is planned off Main Street in Wilmington, if and when it is constructed? How will water be piped to the new American Motors service building, which has been erected on a lot broken off from the ice arena site in back of the AMC dealership opposite Bridge Lane?

Those hard questions were debated last Thursday evening at the meeting of the Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners.

The commissioners were adamant. A water main, or a sewer main, can go into private property from a public street, but it cannot cross that property to service another lot of private land.

In the past year there has been extensive sewer and main installation on Ballardvale Street, in Wilmington, by private interests, but under the control of the water and sewer commissioners. The commissioners have zealously guarded their right to have access to any sewer or water main, in that construction, and in other recent construction during past years.

In May 1984 there were announced plans to build a skating arena, off Main Street and in back of the shopping center. The site was rezoned to allow construction of the arena. Somehow those plans have been on dead center, for more than a year. Last year, Jim Gillis took over as head of the Wilmington Arena Authority, which is in charge of building the rink.

The proposed arena is being financed by Bernard Restuccia, owner of several dealerships including Wilmington Ford and Wilmington AMC.

Daniel Restuccia seems to be in charge of the construction of the AMC service building. It was he who submitted to the water and sewer commissioners a plan, last Thursday, for a sewer for the AMC service building, the plan which started the lengthy debate. In answer to a question from commissioner Art Smith, Restuccia said that the property was owned by the Main Street Realty Trust, and that the sewer would be going through two parcels of land. The plan had not yet been signed.

Smith remarked that there are people in town who want to rezone the property back to residentially zoned land. He went on to say that the commissioners do not approve sewer construction unless they know the entire program, and not for two parcels, even if there is only one owner. "We don't do anything piecemeal."

Restuccia described briefly the arena authority, who would own the property for 99 years, if they "put their signature" on paper.

Smith said the sewer has to be a public sewer, to be valid. "We don't allow cross country water mains, either." He noted that the service building was a two story building and asked about the sprinkler system, which costs, under water department rules, a fee of $2,000. "We grant you permission" said Smith "and you bring your checkbook."

Superintendent Paul Duggan said the fee that had been paid was for a one story building. He pointed out that the water main had been intended for the skating arena, but now the property lines have been changed. A "T" and a "gate" had been put in, and a stub for the AMC building.

"The problem now" Duggan said, "is how does the rink get water?" Chairman Allan commented that it was an eight inch water main. Duggan said it had been shown to him that the entrance was to the AMC building. Engineer Ken Miller commented the Planning Board had signed the plan.

Smith: That water main is illegal.

Allan: This is double trouble. After some discussion Smith remarked: You can't conceive of how many people there are, trying to put in these nightmares.

Restuccia: I came here with plans for a proposed sewer and get another bomb shell dropped on me.

Smith: When people do things without plans - If it had been brought to us six months ago we could have advised you.

Restuccia: Apparently the town is not able to put its functions in order.

Allan: Oh - don't put it that way!

Smith: everyone has to submit plans. We are trying to avoid a Mickey Mouse mess. - Turn this subdivision back and there is no problem.

Duggan, after Smith and Restuccia had exchanged a few more remarks, said that he had been told that "this" (north) side of the entrance was to be in the AMC lot. "Now it is on the other side."

"This is the entrance to the (AMC) parcel and it was no problem - until tonight, when I see that the property line is on the other side (of the entrance)."

In further conversation he said the entrance could be made a public way - and then have an easement - from one street to another (for the sewer, ed.). Smith reminded that the group that the town vote only accepted that way if it went "parallel to Main Street."

Chairman George Allan ended the discussion. "This plan has too many questions. You will have to go back and revise it, and then come back with a plan you want to live with, and with the water mains and sewer mains resolved."

Dembowski takes over as assistant superintendent

by Arlene Surprenant

It is a partnership that seems to be working. Assistant School Superintendent Henry Dembowski, who assumed his new post January 2, has already started implementing Superintendent Robert Horan's ideas, and incorporating some of his own along the way.

In a recent conversation in his temporary quarters on the first floor of the Roman House, Dembowski elaborated on his goals, his family, his impressions of Wilmington, and how he will utilize his own strengths to get the job done.

"I've been data collecting all over the place," he says easily of his first week on the job. Already, from the long list of tasks suggested by Horan, Dembowski has chosen eight to address as his immediate goals. These he will be presenting at the next school committee meeting.

One priority is studying the kindergarten and science curriculums. Dembowski intends to study student readiness at the kindergarten level to see if there is a need for an expanded program or a longer day. He also hopes to develop a science curriculum which is consistent and provides the same skills and soame hands-on experience in each district school.

Dembowski finds it costly and redundant to have each school put out its own handbook. Therefore, he will develop a "generic" system-wide student handbook for kindergarten through eighth grade by September. He hopes to get local realtors to underwrite the cost and, in turn, they get to keep a copy to show prospective clients interested in the Wilmington School System.

"I'm very impressed with the quantity of hardware," Dembowski says of the computer program, noting, also, that though there is "an unbalanced amount of software," the quality is excellent.

He intends to work on a curriculum guide for computer literacy and a directory of software to inventory what's available. This might help teachers better utilize what is already there.

Along with this, Dembowski would like to start some sort of parent seminar to allow for hands-on computer experience so parents won't fear these tools which their children are learning to use. The computer program needs to be "streamlined and coordinated" in all schools so he may suggest hiring a short term person to pull all the computer classes together.

Other areas Dembowski will tackle in the next six months are devising goals and objectives in the guidance departments ("I'm not sure anyone knows what they are," he says), delving in to junior high reading and study skills, finding out how to use the results of third and sixth grade math tests, and, exploring new areas in the talented and gifted program.

"It took me only three days to feel like I belong here," Dembowski says of the warmth of his welcome, adding that "people have been wonderful."

One of his first and most vivid impressions of the town was "the expansiveness of it - it's geographically huge." He goes on to add, eliciting a laugh from his listeners, that "traveling from the North Intermediate to the Shawsheen School is like going on a field trip." What he neglects to say is that the hour round trip from his Swampscott home to Wilmington is no picnic either.

Dembowski resides in Swampscott with his wife Claire and two sons: Stephen, age 15, and David, age 14. Both boys, he says with fatherly pride, are gifted athletes, with Stephen participating in basketball, football, and hockey, and David a particularly fine skier. His wife of 18 years is a "really competent" mother and professional, working full time as a real estate broker.

Both he and Claire made the decision for him to work in Wilmington.

"I felt (and she agreed) it was time for me to move on," he says of that decision, even though the Marblehead School System had been "very good" to him in the past.

Along with a lot of enthusiasm, Dembowski brings 26 years educational experience to his new job. He lists the ability to find creative solutions to problems as one of his strengths. He is task-oriented and likes to work on several ideas at the same time.

Dembowski is also an outgoing person who believes in putting peoples' talents to work. "The most important thing I will be doing is reaching out to the public," he explains. he says he will be visible at PAC meetings and public functions and he will be an active participant at budget and school committee meetings.

In his short time here, Dembowski has observed that a good portion of the school budget seems to be going toward transportation ("Not much education is going on in buses," he says) and school textbooks are "up to date" and in good condition. He can't wait to get involved in refining the various curriculums though he feels strongly that "we can write lofty curriculums, but if they're not implemented properly, we're nowhere."

Superintendent Horan has plenty to smile about these days. Not only does he have some much needed help in a man who seems to complement him in many ways, but he's happy about the new addition to the school system as well.

"He's excellent - I'm very pleased," Horan told the Town Crier, adding "I intend to give him the freedom to accomplish things any way he can to utilize his strengths."

Dogs in pound

The Wilmington dog officer picked up one dog last week. It is a female Airedale Spaniel, picked up near Lucci's.

Other dogs in the pound are a white male shepherd, a female black "lab," a male red Doberman, a black and brown shepherd, and a male dog resembling a Golden Retriever.

Visiting hours at the pound are from 11 a.m. to 12 noon on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Owners may claim their dogs by calling the dog officer at 658-3859. Dogs are available for adoption after they have been held ten days.

Asst. Superintendent of Schools Henry Dembowski

Letters to the Editor

Dear Larz:

Can't believe vandals damaged the Senior Center. Obviously we are not tough enough - last month the Roman House carriage shed, this month the Buzzell School.

The police department has to know what kids are responsible. They should be placed in stocks on the common and let out only to repair the damage with signs on their backs.

Perhaps the town needs vigilantes or at least dogs in vacant buildings to protect its property.

Had just congratulated Jim Miceli in his coordination of the efforts of the Carpenters' Union, the Painters Union, the Voke School and Paul Pintrich, all volunteers.

Wilmington Cops - Bobby Stewart get those kids!!! This is ridiculous! (They want a youth center?)

As ever,
Nosey Nancy

Dear Larz:

After reading your account of Sabra Gowen (Gowing), Jaquith, I'm writing to say I think you have mixed up the school that she's referring to. The old West School would have been closer to the canal where passengers would stop for tea at the Canal House (by the old Shawsheen Avenue bridge).

When you refer to the Butters Row School, I presume you mean the old South School on Chestnut Street (a long way from the canal).

Yours truly,
Margery Spear

Dear Margery:

There was no mixup.

The task that the writer set for himself in 1985 was to prove or disprove the story that Capt. John Harnden commanded a company at Bunker Hill. It wasn't easy, but there is no doubt that his company did arrive at Bunker Hill just at the end of the battle.

Sabra Gowen (Gowing) Jaquith, the daughter of Corporal (and later Captain John Gowing) lived in what some Wilmington residents remember as the Swain House, at the corner of Woburn Street and Lowell Street. She attended the Butters Row School, the second school in that area.

The school was constructed before the days of the Middlesex Canal, which went under a bridge at Butters Row a rod or two easterly from the school. The picture of Carrie (as she was then known) Swain and her pupils was taken in front of that school about 1885.

Carrie (later Caroline) at that time had no education beyond what she had achieved in the Wilmington schools. She might have been described as a "caretaker" teacher who was filling in because no one else was available.

The school in which she was taught burned down about 1895.

It was replaced after a few years by a new school on Chestnut Street, the one you and others know as the South school. It was built in 1898-9, if memory serves correctly. Eddie Neilson was the first janitor, in 1899, and he was paid $6 for his year's services.

Larz

Dear Larz:

Now that Christmas is past and all of us involved in the Troop 56 Christmas Tree Sale are all thawed out, I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped to make our venture a success.

Thanks first to the Scouts and parents of Scouts who volunteered their time to stand for long hours in a cold and windy parking lot. A note of appreciation to Mr. Johnson who designed and painted signs and posters for us. Many area merchants supported us by displaying these signs and posters. Thanks to them.

Mike Elia deserves a special note of thanks for volunteering his parking lot, vehicle, advice and overall support and purchased our trees. We certainly didn't get rich, but we did meet our goal by making enough money to purchase some camping equipment for the group.

The Scouting program looks to the community for support, and it was gratifying to see the strength of that support.

Sincerely,
Ray Fournier,
Troop 56 Comm. Chairman

The Youth Canteen had a roller skating party scheduled for January 21 and a special meeting for the 25th.

Mrs. Frank Tuttle of Carson Avenue had accepted appointment as the advance gift chairman for the 1961 Heart Fund in Wilmington. The announcement was made by Fred Corum, community general chairman.

birthday on Friday the 13th. Among among the guests at Leslie's party were: Ellen Barton, Janis Jacquith, Denise Webster, Gloria Jean Smith, Wanda and Alan Jensen, Joanne Carlo, Joey Iouse, Catherine Fantasia, Carolyn Cosman and Laurie Dluznieski.

Principal Bernard McMahon announced that the high school office would now be open 12 months a year. The service was designed to allow ample time for families moving into town to register their children for school.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moran of First Street, Tewksbury, formerly of Main Street, Wilmington, announced the engagement of their daughter Margaret, to Jerry Coakley of Woburn.

Selectmen explore options on dog officer

by Arlene Surprenant

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen will explore further steps to help dogs in the town pound find their way back to owners or to adopted owners and will look into making the dog officer position a full time job.

This decision was reached Monday night as dog officer Joe Balestrieri explained the changes he has already made in his routine since charges were leveled against him by selectman Bob Cain last month.

Since mid-December, three hours each week have been scheduled for public viewing and dogs have been advertised in the Town Crier.

Reading resident Joan Sheehan, who has been a regular visitor to the pound and monitored the situation, suggested further that visiting hours be expanded to five days a week, the dog officer supply accurate descriptions of dogs, and he advertise in the Town Crier supplement (Middlesex East) to reach a wider audience.

In answer to charges that 84 out of 88 dogs were allegedly destroyed by the dog officer, Balestrieri admits he might have destroyed "one or two, personally." Some were sent to the Lowell Humane Society and they traditionally find homes for "good" dogs, he added.

Cain took exception to this statement. When dogs to the humane society, he said, the majority of dogs are destroyed and not put up for adoption. "The end is the same, as far as I'm concerned," he added. He also said he felt a "diservice" is done to a town where no effort is first made to locate dog owners.

Balestrieri passed out a long list of dogs returned to owners or given up for adoption in 1985. Cain said when he looked through pound records, he never saw such a list. Balestrieri answered "he wasn't required to list these dogs on county forms."

He then went on to say that anyone is welcome to visit the pound, but not if his intention is to "harass you." He claimed he had been faced with harassment on several occasions. Cain said he didn't think it was necessary that Balestrieri try to identify each visitor to the pound. Visitors should be able to just come through without even speaking to the dog officer, if that's what they'd like.

Rocco DePasquale sought to bring the discussion around to a less personal level.

"I think we're all to blame," he said of the controversy. He told Balestrieri he should have "a certain amount of tolerance" if harassed, then added that Balestrieri should have had "proper direction" in the 18 years since he's been the town's part time dog officer.

"We've all learned a lesson from this," DePasquale said.

Audience members were vocal both for and against the performance of the dog officer.

Although she finds the present policy of advertising dogs "very satisfactory," Mary Tedesco said she had asked Balestrieri to advertise the dogs as early as last July and he refused.

Sheehan fired questions at Balestrieri concerning the whereabouts of several dogs which she had seen at the pound and were no longer there. Balestrieri didn't know to which dogs she referred.

Anne Linehan called Balestrieri "a not inhumane man" in his handling of the dogs in his care. He is "a man who does a thankless job," she said, explaining that she had had occasion to deal with him at the pound many times in the past and was satisfied he was doing a proper job.

Selectmen questioned whether Balestrieri could handle extra visiting hours or some extra work. Balestrieri said he worked more than the normal 20 hours now.

"If I work 20 hours a week, where would this town be?" he asked. This led to a decision to investigate the possibility of making the position a full time job, something Balestrieri had suggested in the past.

Committee assures private school parents busing plans will stay intact

by Donna Jackson

The Tewksbury School Committee unanimously voted Wednesday to assure parents of private school students that there will be no further cuts into the private school transportation account should an upcoming special town meeting further slash the school department's fiscal 1986 budget.

The vote leaves standing the committee's previous decision to continue private school transportation for the remainder of the school year and to retain full private school bus service until school department funds run out on April 7.

The move effectively protects private school parents from any further cuts which might happen as an indirect result of the January 21 Special Town Meeting that has been called to restore $216,000 cut from the town's trash account on November 25.

The replacement of funds to the trash account likely means other town departmental budgets, including the school department, will have to be cut.

The motion was adopted after a representative of private school parents handed the committee a petition signed by over 200 parents who met January 3 and agreed to ask the committee to take the action they took Wednesday.

According to a spokesman for the group, about 250 private school parents met January 3 and "reluctantly" agreed to keeping bus service at "status quo" until the department's money runs out.

After the money runs out on April 7, private school parents will be responsible for coming up with arrangements of their own to transport the 560 students who will be affected. One option open to them is to pick up the $63,852 tab to continue full service until the end of the year.

The $63,852 is the amount that was cut from the private school busing account on December 4 as part of an overall department budget cut.

A spokesman for the private school parents, which is without an official leader at this time, said, "We will get by as best we can." He added that although no specific plans had been made yet, the parents would continue to meet and work together to find an answer to the problem.

He went on to say that the group is seeking the support of all private school parents and is considering organizing them into neighborhood groups as a starting point.

Looking ahead to private school bus transportation's future, the spokesman said that private school parents should work toward taking their bus service out of the school department budget and make it a separate line item in the overall town budget.

"We need to stop the abrasion between the public and private school parents and let the townspeople decide (the issue)," he said.

Committeeman Louis Carciofi, who supports private school busing, said he is in favor of making private school busing a separate line item since debates over the issue tend to "monopolize the school committee's time" and because, "it would probably receive more support outside the school department's budget."

Other actions taken by the School Committee at its hour-long meeting included setting up a meeting between committee members and the board of selectmen to discuss the crossing guard issue. School crossing guards were cut from the police department budget as of January 1 in order to free up funds to retain police patrols at current levels.

Right now, students who were previously helped by crossing guards when crossing streets are being picked up by school buses at no extra cost to the department.

A woman walked out of Smitty's 133 Market on Andover St., Tewksbury late last Tuesday night with about $100 from a cash drawer. The theft occurred shortly after closing time, according to police.

Police say a short woman was in the store shortly before the 9 p.m. closing time and managed to find her way to a back office area that is under renovation. Workers told police they believe the woman went unnoticed into the office where she saw a cash drawer that was put aside for use the next morning.

The woman, police say, took the small amount of cash in the drawer, about $100, and left the office area. In the meantime, store employees had locked the doors of the store and were preparing to close.

Police say that before the money was found missing, a clerk opened the door and let the woman out, believing that she had gone unnoticed when employees asked customers to leave the store at 9 p.m.

District Band members

Four Wilmington High School students will represent Wilmington at the Northeastern District Concert, to be held on Saturday at Gloucester High School, sponsored by the Massachusetts Music Educators Association. From left, Brian Murphy, senior, chorus; Kevin Williams, senior, percussion-band; Jeff Murphy, sophomore, percussion-band, and Stathis Feizidis, senior, chorus. Jeff Murphy and Kevin Williams have also qualified to audition for the All-State Concert to be held in April.

Health center offers stop-smoking course

The 20-day American Lung Association self-help stop smoking plan will be offered at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington beginning Monday, January 20.

This program is conducted in a supportive and small group environment from 7 to 8:30 p.m. led by Richard W. Silveria, community health educator. The course runs for five weeks and is scheduled to conclude on Tuesday, February 24. All participants receive a workbook and handbook on "A Life of Freedom From Smoking." Films will be shown and brochures and pamphlets on smoking will be available.

The success rate of the program depends upon one's personal commitment to quitting and assuming responsibility for one's own health. Homework is essential to success - minimal reading and written exercises are required during the 20-day period.

Mr. Silveria graduated with honors from the University of Lowell with a B.S. in Health Education. He is a trained stop smoking facilitator by the American Lung Association and the American Cancer Society.

Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 557.

Town meeting, election site moved

The Wilmington High School renovation has forced a few changes in the location of election polls and the annual town meeting.

On April 19, voters from precincts one and five will choose their candidates at the Town Hall, according to Town Clerk Pat Lynch. All other precincts, at this writing, will be voting at the Wildwood School, primarily because of easy accessibility for the handicapped.

The annual town meeting will convene at 1:30 p.m. on April 26 at the Aleppo Temple on Fordham Road.

Physical ed classes go on without gym

by Arlene Surprenant
A "viable" winter physical education program has been developed by Athletic Director Jim Gillis and his staff and is now underway at the high school while the new gym is under construction.

The program features both outdoor classes and indoor courses such as fitness programs, rhythmic and developmental skills, weight training and first aid. Gillis told the Wilmington School Committee last Wednesday night. Students attended a December orientation to sign up for the courses of their choice.

The physical education dept. is using the Fourth of July building, universal room, auditorium foyer, and Room 127 for indoor classes and the tennis court, athletic fields and the track for outdoor classes.

After school athletic programs will continue during the winter, utilizing space in other schools in the system as well as at the Shawsheen Tech.

Gillis praised building and maintenance personnel at the Tech and other schools, his teaching staff, students, and their parents for their cooperation and support.

"The staff is rising to the occasion and the kids are being tremendous," he said.

When asked how well he thought the program was running and if students were receiving a well-rounded education, high school Principal Paul Fleming replied "I think we're doing the best we can with the circumstances we have." He went on to add it wasn't "an optimum situation" but "there's a spirit" and the teams will remain competitive and succeed.

It's YOUR Money

by Joyce Brisbois
Certified Public Accountant FUND YOUR IRA NOW

Maybe you're only now making your 1985 contributions to your Individual Retirement Account (and you want to get that money in before the April 15 deadline), but there are good dollars and cents reasons to start funding your 1986 IRA now. The sooner you put money in your IRA, the sooner it can start earning tax-deferred interest.

If you don't have the cash on hand right now to put onto your account, it may even be worthwhile to borrow the money and start it working for you immediately. For instance, if you were to borrow $2,000 and pay it back in monthly installments, the total loan interest -- deductible on your tax return -- would probably be lower than the interest you earn on the contribution. The $2,000 starts making money right away, and the interest is not taxable until you take the money out. Of course, the higher your tax bracket and the lower the rate of interest, the more worthwhile it is to borrow for your IRA.

New tax regulations may influence your IRA planning. Talk it over with your accountant.

Hallissy gets license to open used auto dealership in former Peirce Ford building

Automobiles for sale will be making a return to the former Peirce Ford building at 333 Main St., Tewksbury. Selectmen voted unanimously January 7 to issue Peter D. Hallissy a class two license needed to open a used car dealership in the 50,000 square foot building currently used as a distribution center for Wang computers.

There is no timetable for the opening of the showroom, but the building has been sold to Hallissy. Wang found the property expendable after the firm decided to move its distribution center to a Lowell location.

Hallissy, according to Lowell Attorney Philip Nyman, will sell second hand cars on a portion of the site and plans to move the entire service center for his numerous new car dealerships to another portion of the site.

Hallissy has several new car dealerships on Rogers St., Lowell, a few miles up the road from the Tewksbury location. He also runs a lease car business from a former Tewksbury real estate office near the Lowell line.

Nyman hinted that the long range plan may be to move a new car dealership into the Tewksbury location, but quickly added that no such plans are in the immediate future.

"It is planned ultimately that one or more of the (Lowell based) dealerships will be moved" to Tewksbury, Nyman told the board.

The 25 acre Tewksbury site, Nyman said, will relieve expansion pressures for Hallissy. No section of the Tewksbury building will be rented out to anyone else, he assured the board.

With only seven acres of land servicing five dealerships in Lowell, Hallissy has found the need for additional space to repair cars taken in trade for resale and to do preparation for new car deliveries.

The board of appeals last month okayed a needed special permit to do automotive repairs on the site, Nyman noted.

Tech votes $1.5m bond

by Arlene Surprenant
"Tonight was no surprise, only a formality," said Shawsheen Tech school committee member Kevin Sowyrda of Tuesday night's unanimous vote to approve a $1.5 million bond issue. The bond will be "extended over a five year period."

As it stands now, $800,000 will be used for heating equipment and roof repair while $700,000 is slated for the purchase of new more updated shop equipment. Wilmington's share of the cost the first year will be $51,228.

Sowyrda pointed out that committee members put in a lot of time "communicating" the need for the bond to the five regional towns through a formal dinner and "roadshows."

If Wilmington disagrees with this vote, added Sowyrda, selectmen have the option of calling a special town meeting within 30 days to halt the action.

In other business, the school committee hired former physical education head Jack Bowen as the school's new full time discipli-narian. Sowyrda called Bowen "very capable" of carrying out the job.

I pushed very hard for this position," said Sowyrda, adding that he felt the new position will do much to resolve some problems and improve discipline at the school. Formerly, the post was filled by two part time staff members.

Tewksbury Senior Topics

The Council on Aging (COA) extends its sincere thanks to the members of the Nashua, New Hampshire Senior Center for their gracious hospitality in welcoming our seniors to their center last Wednesday.

The Council on Aging monthly meeting will be held this Thursday, January 16 at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome.

Seniors are reminded that beano and whist will not be held this month. However, the activity will resume next month.

The senior center will be closed next Monday, January 20 in recognition of Martin Luther King Day.

The Merrimack Valley Nutrition Program reports that due to the funding outlook for the fiscal year, it finds it necessary to increase the suggested donation amount of hot lunches served at the senior center to $1.00. The new suggested price will take effect February 1.

We have recently received many inquiries about the distribution of cheese and butter. The Tewksbury Council on Aging will not have a distribution until the end of February. The exact date will be noted in a future column.

Seniors should note that over the counter medicines such as aspirin and cold remedies are exempt from sales tax, if prescribed by a registered physician. This ruling applies only to those over the counter remedies that are prescribed by your doctor. For example, if one takes a great deal of aspirin during the course of the day for an ailment and their doctor has told them to do so, that person should get a prescription from his or her doctor. This will entitle you to obtain the aspirin tax free.

St. Dorothy's will hold a mass for senior citizens next Tuesday, January 21, at 10:30 a.m. Confessions will be heard before mass and refreshments will be served. All are welcome.

Wilmington scores four victories

Wildcats get on track

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

Coach - Dave Orndorff's Wilmington High School basketball boys appear to be on the right track after suffering through a tough season (1-19) a year ago, emerging this winter as a Merrimack Valley Conference force to be reckoned with after a Wilmington Christmas Tournament championship and four victories thus far.

The Wildcats sport a respectable 4-5 slate after Friday night's 75-46 romp past Dracut. Sophomore center Mike (6-6) Lombard, rounding into a legitimate star early in his high school career, led the Cats cruise with 24 points.

Wilmington's other victories came over Bedford (66-36) and North Reading (67-55) in the Christmas tourney, along with a win over Greater Lowell (53-49) in other non-league action to open the season.

Included in the five early season Wilmington setbacks have been MVC losses to Lawrence (74-60) and Chelmsford after a pair of non-league defeats to Chelsea (52-49 and 66-63).

The Wildcats appear to have turned the corner toward respectability, led by Lombard and a cast of scrappy players who have sharpened their games in summer competition. A look at the Wildcats season so far.

Chelsea 52 Wildcats 49...This was a real tough-to-take defeat, as the Wildcats battled back from a 48-42 deficit to knot the score with 2:10 left to play.

Wilmington then decided to put the ball in the deep freeze with 1:03 remaining, only to turn the ball over and with it the game.

Mike Lombard paced the Cats with 19 points and 14 rebounds, getting help from Chris Parr (11) and Eric Torell (seven).

Chelsea 66 Wildcats 63...Wilmington's rematch with Chelsea was just as tough, as the locals rallied after trailing 55-31 with 4:30 left in the third quarter.

At this point, Orndorff went with a lineup led by juniors Rob DeSantis, Eric Braciska, Mark Eddy and Jim Moynihan along with sophomore center Lombard.

This lineup pressed and forced a flock of Chelsea turnovers before just falling short of victory.

DeSantis helped the comeback cause mightily with 10 quick points off the bench.

Also contributing for Wilmington were Parr (11), Lombard (15), Russ Lydon (13) along with Moynihan, Dave Hamilton and Torell with four points apiece.

George Fuller rounded out the Cat attack with a single bucket. The Wildcats outscored Chelsea 19-7 in the final quarter.

Lawrence 74 Wildcats 60...Senior forward Chris Parr led the way with 22 points and seven rebounds, followed by Lombard with 11 points and 13 boards.

WHS leaders

Wildcat senior co-captains Russ Lydon and Chris Parr are just two of the reasons why Wilmington High School is a much improved basketball team this winter.

Junior forward Rob DeSantis also chipped in with 10 points, hitting four of six shots from the field. Russ Lydon and Eric Torell stuck in eight and five points respectively.

"We got the lead down to six points with three minutes left to play and a man at the foul line," noted Orndorff afterwards, "but we missed both free throws, and then Lawrence ran off six straight points. We just ran out of gas."

Chelmsford 66 Wildcats 46...The Wildcats were forced to play catch-up throughout the game after a Chelmsford run of 12 straight points in the first quarter.

Wilmington whittled the CHS lead down to nine in the third quarter, but as Orndorff noted, "Chelmsford was just too strong on the boards for us."

Lombard was the main man for the Cats with 12 points and 11 rebounds, getting support from junior forward George Fuller with 10 points and Parr with six.

Wildcats 67 North Reading 55...Wilmington clinched its Christmas Tourney title with this win that was keyed by a 22-12 Wildcat fourth quarter run.

Tourney MVP Parr worked hard off the boards to snare eight rebounds while scoring 15 points. Lombard was also super with 19 points, 14 rebounds and five steals.

Senior guard Russ Lydon was instrumental in breaking the tough North Reading press.

For their efforts, Parr, Lombard and Lydon were named to the tourney all-star team along with Tewksbury forward Bob Dunlay and North Reading's Terry Shaw.

Torell was also a vital cog in the title clincher for the Cats, holding North Reading's leading scorer (24 pts) to just three points for the game.

Junior guard Jim Moynihan continued his steady improvement with 10 points and some solid defense.

Senior forward Dave Hamilton also played his best game of the season with 13 points and eight rebounds.

"This was a real team effort," praised Orndorff. "Eric Torell played real tough defense and Russ Lydon was super in breaking their press."

Wilmington shot 47 percent from the field and 70 percent from the line to put the title on ice.

Wildcats 66 Bedford 36...The Cats manhandled a weak Bedford team to qualify for the title tilt against North Reading.

Lombard (12 points, 15 rebounds, six blocks) was a key for Wilmington, as was Chris Parr (seven points), Lydon (eight points, seven assists) and senior forward Mike Stuart who came off the bench early to break a press and finish with 12 points.

Wilmington blew Bedford away with a 24-8 fourth quarter run.

Wildcats 53 Gr. Lowell 49...Greater Lowell came back to cut the WHS lead to 50-49 with 1:20 left in the game, but that is as close as they would get, as Lombard (21 points, 15 rebounds) and company held on for the victory.

Parr and Moynihan scored nine points apiece for the Cats, getting help from the play of DeSantis, Lydon and Hamilton with four points each.

Pam grabs rebound

Tewksbury High School forward Pam Brothers wrestles this rebound away from a Billerica player in Merrimack Valley Conference girls' basketball action at TMHS Tuesday night. Coach Donna Tanner's Redmen went into the game with a 4-2 record.

WHS matmen pin Whittier

During the past week, the Wildcat wrestlers beat Whittier Tech, 40-30 and lost to the Lancers of Lawrence, 48-18 and the Rams of Shawsheen Tech, 45-22. This brings their overall record to 4-6, with their MVC record at 1-2.

Bill Szydlowski (140) and Joe Hall (147) kept pace with their winning ways. Szydlowski garnered three more pins, while Hall picked up a decision at 157 against Lawrence and two pins.

Allen Atte was also chipping in points with two wins, followed by Paul Cantwell (134) with two straight victories. Szydlowski and Hall now post records of 8-2.

The junior varsity was able to stay on track and raise their overall record to 9-1. Steady performances have been turned in by Kevin Brennan, Mark Palmisano, Fred Antinerelli, Don Sullivan, Jim Sarasin, Chris Allan and Mike Spencer.

TMHS hoopsters can see light

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

The Tewksbury High School Redmen and their coach Bob Melillo can see the light at the end of what looked like a long tunnel after the team had missed 28 free throws in a miserable Christmas tourney loss to North Reading at the outset of the season.

Tewksbury varsity basketball, quite naturally slowed by the success of the Division II championship football team that featured several roundballers, have begun to pick up the pace of late, giving Small School favorite Lawrence a tussle before falling 61-59 Friday night and defeating Haverhill, 59-57 in MVC action Tuesday (Jan. 14) evening.

Junior forward Jim Damouras came off the bench for a foul-plagued Jay Kelley in the third quarter to score the winning bucket and cap a night that included 14 points, nine rebounds and four blocked shots.

Damouras' winning shot was a 10 footer that beat the Hillies and gave the Redmen their fifth victory of the season against three defeats.

"This kid Damouras has come out of the woodwork to really help us," noted Melillo after the game. "He really worked hard on his game over the summer, and now he's our sixth man coming off the bench."

Senior tri-captain Bob Briggs led the TMHS scorers in the win over

Letter to the sports editor

Dear Rick:

Our son is a sophomore with the Wilmington High School winter track team. We're very proud of him and support his hard work in practice and meets.

However, we never see any coverage or pictures of WHS track accomplishments for this season. We really think that wherever our town is being represented we should all hear about it via the Wilmington Town Crier.

These young people work hard and give their 110 percent for our town. How about rewarding and informing the town about them?

We are proud of the coaches and team members and I'm sure the rest of our town residents would be, too!!! Please cover these events.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robichaud
Park Street, Wilmington

The sports editor replies: I take note of your complaint, and will attempt to include WHS track in some upcoming editions.

Renovation work seven weeks behind

by Arlene Surprenant

In response to an article in last week's Town Crier, the Wilmington Board of Selectmen will be keeping a close eye on renovation work at the high school in the month ahead.

Jim Stewart pointed out that according to the minutes of the December meeting of the Permanent Building Committee (PBC), the renovation work is seven weeks behind schedule. He suggested it might be best not to pay any more requisition requests from Sciaba Construction Corp. until they look into this.

Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski said he had been in touch with both the contractor and PBC Chairman Bernie LaVita.

"If we extend good faith to him (Sciaba), he'll come back to us with good work and progress," Stapeczynski said. He explained he was willing to give Sciaba one month's time to see if his extra efforts to keep the construction on schedule "pays off." Sciaba promised he would have men working full time and overtime, at his own expense, to keep up to date.

Stapeczynski also said he was confident Sciaba would be "substantially" complete with all work, as stipulated in his contract, by September.

As of Monday, steel is in place for the cafeteria, brickwork is done on the library exterior, and steel will be up for the new gym in February, said Stapeczynski.

First baby

Jeremy Scott Pauquette arrived too late to celebrate New Year's, but just in time (12:35 a.m.) to be the first baby born in 1986 at the New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham. Jeremy, who checked in at 6 pounds, 15.6 ounces, is the first child to Cindy Lee and Joseph Scott Pauquette of Salem Street, Wilmington. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. David Newhouse, Sr.

Wilmington Police News

During the week ending January 14, Wilmington police officers responded to four accidents, 36 alarms, made eight arrests and assisted other departments once.

Four disturbances were quieted, along with four domestic problems. Two larcenies were logged, medical assistance was rendered, two individuals were taken into protective custody and one vehicle was reported stolen and one was recovered.

Three incidents of suspicious activity were investigated along with two breaks. One trailbike complaint was taken along with five involving traffic and seven incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Sometime last Friday morning, about around 3:00, thieves broke into a trailer truck parked at the Lechmere warehouse on Ballardvale Street. They made off with a large number of television sets and VCR units. Brands included Zenith, Litton, Toshiba, Sony and others.

The value of the property was over several thousand dollars, Inspector John Ritchie is investigating.

A week ago Tuesday afternoon, Steven Mader of Stoneham reported that his 1981 Oldsmobile had been stolen from the North Intermediate School. It was recovered shortly after midnight, Wednesday. The vehicle had been stripped and left on the street in Boston.

Warrant arrests: Officer Waterhouse arrested John Greenwood of Nashua, N.H. at the Lowell District Court last Wednesday by virtue of a Woburn Court default warrant. He was arrested after having posted $500 bail in the Lowell Court. He was later bailed from Wilmington.

On Thursday morning Officer Mauriello arrested Joseph Theriault, 23, of Nichols Street, on the basis of a state police warrant from Middleboro. He was bailed from Wilmington for the state police.

Thursday evening Officer LeGrand arrested James Ulm of Temple Street, Stoneham on a Woburn police warrant. That same day Officer Jim Peterson arrested James Marchese of Billerica on the basis of two warrants from Wilmington and one from Carlisle.

Early Saturday morning Officer Mauriello arrested Thomas Foss, 19, of Stoneham on a motor vehicle default warrant from the state police in Andover. That evening James M. Gervais of River Road, a Tewksbury and James P. Walgreen of Salem, N.H. were arrested by Sgt. Palmer and Officer Lynch. Both were charged with being under the age of 21, in possession of alcohol.

Law bans tobacco sales to minors

by Arlene Surprenant

Anne Linehan met with selectmen Monday seeking some assurance that Wilmington will enforce a new law prohibiting store proprietors from selling cigarettes and other tobacco products to minors under 18 years of age. Any proprietor convicted of breaking the law will be fined $1,000.

Linehan, who is Chemical People chairman and a moving force in Wilmington's fight against teenage drug abuse, pointed out that children who do smoke are at higher risk, as cigarettes are considered a "gateway drug" to alcohol and drug use.

According to a letter to local boards of health, the state Department of Public Health believes the use of tobacco is a public health problem of "enormous magnitude, a problem that is related to approximately 9,000 excess deaths each year in Massachusetts."

Selectman Jim Stewart suggested his board draft a letter to Health Director Gregory Erickson and Police Chief Bobby Stewart saying the selectmen are in favor of strictly enforcing the law and asking how they plan to go about doing so. Erickson, the board was told, has already ordered 200 posters to be placed in local stores outlining the law.

Exams at WHS

Wilmington High School mid term examinations will take place on January 21, 22, and 23. Students are required to report to their exams only.

If they come in late or leave early, they are responsible for their own transportation. Regular bus service and all school service will be available during the school day.

Wilmington Senior Topics

Blood pressure-diabetes

The nurse will be at the Center Thursday, January 16. She will be checking blood pressures and giving the diabetes test. It is necessary to pick up a number when arriving at the desk.

Exercise classes

The exercise classes are held in the Drop-in Center twice a week. For those whose doctor prescribes a routine program of exercise for health, this program will satisfy doctors' prescriptions. A $1.00 donation is requested if participant can afford it. Any senior who feels exercise is important should not forego it because they cannot afford it. Check with fore or after the class.

Therapeutic social

The Therapeutic social for January to the Cabot Theater will be held Sunday, January 19. The buses will leave the Drop-in Center at 11:15 a.m. It is necessary to check in at the office before boarding on the buses. Those taking their own car should call the center by Wednesday morning.

Center closed Monday

Monday is a holiday and the center will be closed. Please make appointments accordingly as the minibus will not be on the road.

Clothes at the Center

There are many beautiful clothes donated to the center. Included are winter coats, women's slacks and jackets, some dresses and men's clothing. Check with Francis to try any article on for size. Those who are shut in and in need of a particular article are urged to call the Drop-in Center.

Fuel assistance

Fuel assistance applications are still being made out at the Drop-in Center. It is important to have a copy of income, i.e. Social Security and pension checks and a fuel bill that is not paid.

Medicare increase

You are probably aware that beginning January 1, 1986 the cost of Medicare Hospital Insurance Part A increased. The deductible for the first day of hospital stay will increase $92. to $492. Unless one has a supplement insurance that is what will have to be paid when admitted. The company carrying the supplement insurance will be increased after the 60th day of $100 to 123. With luck most will not experience this increase.

Diagnostic Related Groups

The Diagnostic Related Groups (DRG) system is another program which will not be an asset to anyone under the Medicare medical program. The Health Care Financing Administration which administer the Federal Medicare Program has developed a list of 467 DRGs. Each is assigned a monetary value which is the maximum that will be paid to the hospital by Medicare. When a Medicare covered person is admitted to a hospital he or she is given a DRG. The hospital knows exactly how much money it will receive to treat that person. If the person's treatment is concluded quickly, the hospital may profit from the DRG. If the person's treatment is not completed, the hospital may lose. It is fair to say that the DRG system has a built-in incentive for early discharge.

Hospitals and physicians still have an obligation to treat patients according to their best medical judgement and not according to financial considerations. Anyone who believes that he/she or a family member has experiences pressure to leave a hospital too soon, remember to keep the discharge notice you will receive before discharge (if you do not receive one, ask for it, every patient has a right to receive one). This notice is very important because it states that the patient has a right to appeal the plan to discharge.

Those who need legal help for premature discharge the Senior Citizen's Law Project of the Cambridge/Somerville Legal Service serves elders in our community. Call the Woburn office 935-6495.

Preserving elderly independence

By William Pacino

Let's set the scene. Your 87-year-old father and/or 83-year-old mother refuse to sell their home and move into an elderly "village". Yet they suffer from various medical problems related to their age; they live in a harsh part of the country weather-wise (New England); and they do not live within sight of the nearest neighbor. In short, they want to live their lives as they always have, without regard to changing circumstances.

Question: How do you make sure they are secure, both in their minds and in case of a medical emergency?

Solution: Through a personal response emergency system.

For the elderly, disabled or infirm, the word security represents more than just protection against fire and crime in the home. It can mean the protection and supervision of patients recuperating at home from an illness or operation. Personal response security can also mean an extra measure of protection for older adults living alone, by providing assistance in specialized circumstances, such as a medical emergency.

Through a device worn around the neck like a pendant or worn on the belt or pocketed, the user can summon assistance by pressing a button with the thumb and forefinger. This device is only part of the total personal response emergency response system.

The complete system consists of the wireless radio frequency pendant, a receiver and the emergency communications center. The receiver is usually placed in the bedroom of the home and allows the user to operate the pendant up to 200 feet from the receiver.

When the button on the pendant is pressed, a computerized message is transmitted through existing telephone lines to the emergency communications center. Unlike tape dialers, which are prone to false alarms and can not draw a distinction between a "busy" telephone signal and a dial tone before sending a message, the new digital alarms keep dialing until a connection is acknowledged by the computer at the other end.

After the call is acknowledged, highly trained personnel go into action, following pre-arranged instructions as indicated in the individual's computerized customer records. The appropriate medical response team (doctors, paramedics, hospital, ambulance or police) is on its way within

Kicking back and staying warm

FM TALK: Glad you can join us this week. I'm stretched out in my blue velvet wing chair, puffing away on my pipe and staring out the window at my front yard. Looks mighty cold out there; we've just had a few inches of freshly fallen snow to brighten things up a bit. Can't tell exactly how nippy it is outside, since I haven't left the confines of my humble and warm abode all day. At least one of God's little creatures must be enjoying the new white stuff; I see tiny tracks trailing across a big patch of white directly in front of the window. Don't know how he could love it that much, though. I think I'd prefer to remain right where I am.

Well, 1985 is just a memory now. All this snow and nasty cold air and blustery wind serve to remind us that we are firmly ensconced in the new year. I hope it's starting out in the right way for you. I know it is for yours truly.

I've just returned from a much-needed week's breather in Florida. Ft. Lauderdale, to be exact. Everyone should have the chance to spend a few days on the beach in sunny, warm south Florida immediately following the holidays. What a way to forget about all the money you shelled out over Christmas! And it surely is the best remedy for the post-holiday blues. You know, that low feeling you get when you know you've got to pay off the credit card companies, and you still have to look forward to the two or three months of rotten winter weather before the picture improves.

Speaking of Florida, if only I could have known the Patriots were going to make it as far as they did. I would have planned my vacation around taking in that terrific conference championship game in Miami. A few of us were lucky enough to take the game in, however, but I wasn't one of them. As I write this column, the fate of the Pats' super bowl chances haven't yet been decided, so there's no way I can congratulate them on the victory they so richly deserve. But I can say that I'm proud to be a die-hard Pats fan who always believed that one day, far off in the distant future, they would pull it all together and go someplace. Whether this is the year they make it to the super bowl or not, they've proven they have the sticktoitiveness to win when most people and teams thought they'd throw in the towel. If nothing else, this Patriots team will be remembered for erasing that horrible reputation for choking in the big games, a reputation they won't have to live with any longer. Regardless of what happens after this column appears, thanks, Pats, for making Boston a proud sports city again. No longer do we have to look to just the Celtics to provide that pride.

I'm not very proud of being a movie-goer, however. Except for three or four of the current crop of films running at the theatres, there's very little worth paying five bucks to see these days. Among those exceptions are "Out of Africa," Sydney Pollack's lengthy but magnificent romance starring Meryl Streep and Robert Redford; "The Color Purple," which marks a departure from Steve Spielberg's usual subject matter — it's brilliant and easily the best movie of the year; and "White Nights," starring Mikhail Baryshnikov, who makes seeing this film a must-see, particularly if you, like me, truly enjoy the art of ballet. Frankly, I'm tired of those Rocky pictures, although they do, I must admit, keep you entertained. As for those mindless, disgustingly gross comedies designed to attract the young moviegoing audience, the most ignorant human being would be hard pressed to find one these days that could be called entertaining. By the way, I pick Meryl Streep to cop Best Actress Oscar this spring, and William Hurt, who's a terrific actor, is a shoo-in for best actor for this performance in "Kids of the Spider Woman." The movie-going audiences didn't like it, the critics loved it. Incidentally, don't overlook "To Live And Die In L.A.," as a candidate for at least a best picture nomination. The latest film from William Friedkin, a la "The French Connection," is the best of its genre this season, and surely will be the standard by which all others of its kind will be compared.

If sitting by the fire and reading a good book is more your cup of tea, then I've got a couple of suggestions there too. I've just finished reading a super mystery novel, entitled "Billingsgate Shoal," by Rick Boyer, who comes from the Boston area. The mystery, which won the Edgar Award for Best Mystery of the Year, is set in and around Boston. If the mystery genre is your style of escapist reading, you'll love this one. The March of Dimes

Mothers march door-to-door

March of Dimes Mothers March will celebrate its 36th year nationally, and 34th year in Massachusetts when it commences Sunday, January 19 and continues through January 26, 1986. The Mothers March is noted as being the "original" door-to-door campaign. It began in the early 1950's as a means to collect funds for the eradication of polio.

Like many of the most successful fundraising events sponsored by the March of Dimes, the annual Mothers March was born out of the initiative and imagination of volunteers. Two businessmen from Phoenix, Arizona, Charles Hoover and Dick Fitzgerald decided a personalized, neighbor-to-neighbor collection could provide the community with a new way to raise funds to battle the crippling — polio. With the help of other volunteers, these two men organized the first march in January 1950. The date was chosen in honor of the founder of the March of Dimes' birthday, the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Hoover, Fitzgerald and their group canvassed the entire community, soliciting funds for the March of Dimes. Shining porch lights, ringing church bells, and blaring fire sirens signaled one city's commitment to the Mothers March. Amid these sounds of hope, marchers collected more than $45,000. The Mothers March was born. Subsequently, polio was defeated.

In 1985, more than 25 years later over 18,000 men, women and children throughout Massachusetts knocked on their neighbors doors to collect funds for the March of Dimes' new mission — the prevention of birth defects. A large majority of these marchers are the children and grandchildren of the first marchers. Just as the campaign passes from neighbor-to-neighbor it also passes from generation to generation.

In the Spirit and tradition of the Mothers March, the March of Dimes asks that you give generously when a March of Dimes volunteer calls upon you during January 19-26...and invest in our future generations.

For more information on the Mothers March or to become a Mothers March volunteer, please call the March of Dimes in Dedham, at (617) 329-1360.

moments. Each user's records are personalized and accurately maintained. Records include: an up-to-date medical history; current medications and dosages prescribed for the individual; his/her hospital of preference; a listing of family members and friends desiring notification of emergency situations (including their ad-resses and telephone numbers), and a list of individuals who hold keys to the premises. Attending physicians are immediately notified of any emergency activity taken on behalf of their patients. Amazingly, this whole process takes only seconds.

The personal response emergency response system, or PERSYST, offered by Amcest Corp., 1017 Walnut Street, Roselle, NJ 07203. Telephone: 1-800-631-7370. Amcest already runs a professional, round-the-clock nation wide emergency monitoring computer network, which is used by community-based hospitals for the "Lifeline" home health care program. PERSYST is an effort to bring the resources of the computerized personal emergency communications center to everyone who needs them.

Prices vary from $200 to $400 for the purchase of the system and from $15 to $25 a month for the services of the emergency communications center (central station) to monitor the equipment. PERSYST is available through independent personal emergency response dealers, medical equipment suppliers, home health agencies, nursing homes, municipal senior citizen housing centers and hospitals.

NATURAL FAMILY PLANNING

Natural Family Planning Classes begin January 28 at St. Barbara's Rectory on Cambridge Street in Woburn.

The program — designed to teach couples how to plan, postpone or avoid pregnancy — consists of four classes held once a month for four consecutive months. The new cycle of classes will meet on Mondays from 7:30 to 10:30 P.M. Fee for the program is $30, and registration is required by calling Community Health Services at 789-2430.

The Natural Family Planning Method provides professional instruction on how to use the sympto-thermal method for interpreting a woman's body temperature, cervical mucus and other changes to identify the fertile phases of the reproductive cycle. The method is different from "rhythm" but uses no artificial means of contraception. It is as effective as any method of birth control when properly learned and applied. The method may be used by all women in all phases of the childbearing years. For more information, call Community Health Services at 789-2430.

North Reading-Lynnfield Adult Education Program for 1985-1986 will begin the week of February 3.

Why not develop new talents, meet new people, express your creativity and, at the same time, have a good time and make new friends?

Registration for second semester classes will take place in Lynnfield, at the High School on Tuesday, January 21 from 6:30 to 9:30 P.M. Individuals Program pamphlets which give a more complete listing of course offerings along with registration forms will be available in the Town Hall, Library, Ryer's, and other locations throughout town or they may be picked up at the main office of the High School.

If you have any further questions, suggestions for new course offerings, or would like to teach a course, please call Richard Kieran at the High School (664-3156).

For those registering by phone, please call Nancy Norton at the High School (664-3156) after January 21.

While preference is given to residents of North Reading and Lynnfield, residents of surrounding communities may register on a space available basis. Senior citizens may register for half price.

OUTREACH

The Nursing Outreach program, advocating for nursing home residents in Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham, and Wakefield announces a new training program being offered to interested citizens. The training session which is presented by the Department of Elder Affairs will be held the week of January 27. Sessions include: Nursing Home Residents Rights, Aspects of Aging, Problem Solving skills, and legal training. There are also presentations by nursing home administrators and nursing staff.

This training is useful to a large segment of the community. Adults dealing with their parents in nursing homes as well as those who volunteer for the Nursing Home Outreach Program will find this information valuable.

After training one is eligible to become a visiting Ombudsman. An Ombudsman is a person who visits residents in nursing homes and assists them in resolving concerns. They also act as a community link for the isolated elderly.

For further information about training or if you have a concern about a nursing home resident, contact Andrea Rubin, Program Director at 322-4766.

The program is funded by a grant from Mystic Valley Elder Services and administered by Jewish Family and Children's Service.

SKILLS TRAINING

Employment Connections, Inc., (ECI) is a private non-profit job training center located at 980 Broadway, Chelsea, providing opportunities in skills training, remedial education and GED preparation, English-as-a-Second Language and Vocational Exploration. ECI is presently offering training in Machine Operations and Automotive Repair Technology through a Bay State Skills Corporation (BSSC) grant, and Electronics Assembly through a grant from Employment Resources, Inc. (ERI). Any resident of Massachusetts can qualify for BSSC funded Machine and Auto programs while the ERI funded Electronics Program is operated for recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (A.F.D.C.) from many North Suburban Boston communities.

These programs provide students with 12-22 weeks of intensive classroom instruction, and the Machine and Auto Programs include company internships. Job development and placement assistance will also be provided. Additionally, for those individuals needing to upgrade their educational or English speaking skills before entering a training program, Remedial Education and English-as-a-Second Language classes are also available.

career possibilities and job advancement. This year, Lesley College has introduced an innovative program through which business and health care professionals may work toward bachelor of science and master's degrees.

Retired Men's Club January Concert

GEORGE ANDREWS, 1986 Massachusetts Easter Seal Child and former Boston Bruins Team Captain Terry O'Reilly thanked George Riccardelli of Century 21 G.R. Associates in Stoneham for their generous support of the Easter Seal Society during the past year. George Riccardelli's office held an Easter Seal Golf Tournament and raised over $2,000 to benefit Easter Seals.

Despite a chill factor of 15 below zero, 284 retired men attended the Jan. 8 meeting of the Retired Men's Club of Wakefield. The program, always an eagerly anticipated event, was the concert by our own band of 32 members. Conducting chores were alternated between Chet Card and Joe Leary. Chet Card, our energetic and much-respected 91 year old leader, plays trumpet in the band when not conducting; on Wednesday morning he filled in for the bass drum player until the drummer arrived. The band showed its versatility by playing 10 numbers as diverse as a medley of college fight songs, show tunes and marches. The concert lasted from 10 to 11 a.m.

Incidentally, the band would welcome new members, so if you are retired and would like to get back to playing again, you are welcome to join the band which practices once a week and plays for many events around the area. They especially would like to have players of clarinet, French horns, alto horns, baritone horns and bassoon. If you think you may be interested in joining this spirited group, call George Riedeman at 245-7780 or come to any meeting of the club on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month, and ask to see the leader or manager of the band.

The club welcomed 14 visitors and three new members. The guests were Ronald W. Heckbert of Stoneham; Lloyd L. Noyes of Hampden, Me.; Eugene Twomey of Lynnfield; Earle D. Benson, Michael A. Baltier, Lloyd Chapman, Thomas Hynes, George Kinsey, Irving B. Ruggles and Don Swain all of Reading; James A. Adamczyk, James Queeney and Edgar Wilson all of Wakefield. The new members are Milton Freeman of Wilmington, Charles E. Horton of Melrose and James O. Munn of Andover. The visitors were invited to come again on Jan. 22 to become members. That is all it takes to become a member — just attendance at two meetings. No dues, no sponsor necessary.

49 birthdays were recognized and Bradford Savage won the door prize. A moment of silence was observed in memory of Roland Packard (1896-1886). Mr. Packard joined the club six months after it was founded in 1932.

Announcements included a meeting of the Safety Committee at 9:15 in the church library before the next meeting. The Bowling Club announced they have welcomed a number of new members; they bowl every Monday and Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at Wakefield Bowladrome. The Stamp Club met Tuesday, Jan. 14 in the Wakefield Library. The Camera Club met on Tuesday, Jan. 14 in the room opposite the general the brochures are ready describing the Bermuda trip in November.

The meeting on Jan. 22 promises to be another very interesting one. The speaker will be Clark Booth of Reading, the special events reporter for Channel Five. Mr. Booth is well known to New England television audiences, especially for his sports coverage in the area. He will talk about the sports picture in Boston as seen through the eyes of a television sportscaster. If you are a retired man residing in Wakefield or nearby towns, visit us at 9:00 a.m. on Jan. 22 and become a part of the more than 600 men who meet twice a month to enjoy programs of interest, and to meet other retirees who are enjoying their retirement. Enter through the parking lot entrance of the First Parish Congregational Church in Wakefield. Mark your calendar now!

Roving

they see many drivers daily, and asked them whether they've noticed an increase in the number of drivers using their seat belts. Without exception, every one said they have not. In a couple of cases, they've noticed deliberate defiance of the law by those who frequently used their belts in the past. "It's funny," one attendant noted, "but people don't like to be told how to protect themselves, even though they know it might be good for them. It's like the state telling you which chair in your living room to sit in, in case there's a fire. You're going to sit in whichever chair you want."

There is certainly a fire being lit under bar owners and operators these days. Clubs and restaurants are being ordered by local licensing commissions to display signs stating that deliberate violators of the drinking currently on the shelves: Carl Sagan's "Contact," which is science fiction, not fact, an unusual departure for the engaging science expert; and an offbeat novel entitled "Less Than Zero," which was written by a student at Bennington College, in Vermont. "Less Than Zero" is Bret Easton Ellis' first novel, and even though the critics panned it, I found it to be an interesting examination of just how unsatisfying it can be to be a rich kid growing up today.

Whether you are rich or poor, the state's new seat belt law is supposed to help keep you alive. Most of the people this columnist has spoken to agree that the intention of the law is a good one, however, the overwhelming majority of the drivers didn't like being ordered to buckle-up. They felt that it is their choice whether or not to buckle up, just as it is their choice whether or not to turn on the radio, or to put the roof down, if they drive a convertible. "Since I'm not effecting the safety of anybody else, why should I be told whether or not I have to take safety precautions on myself," was a statement I've heard over and over again since the law went into effect on New Year's day. I've spoken with numerous gas station attendants, since age law will be prosecuted to the maximum extent that the law allows. Undercover police are being used to catch violators in the act. In a Burlington club recently, an undercover policeman removed six underaged drinkers. They were later released in the custody of their parents, but not until they realized the gravity of their situation. A brief note on a similar subject: I was surprised to see a major liquor company take out an ad recently indicating that their product mixes well with everything except driving. If was a terrific ad, and I hope other liquor companies follow suit. It is interesting to note that the state doesn't want us drinking and driving, yet it allows liquor companies to advertise their products on billboards all along our state highways. Traveling to the Cape recently I counted no less than twenty billboards urging drivers to buy one liquor product or another. The state is quick to tell us to put on our seat belts, but it still wants all that tax revenue it accrues from the sale of liquor.

It's getting dark outside, and I'm just about ready to call it a day. As I watch the sun set over a frozen horizon, I can't help but think of next month, when the Red Sox head south for spring training. When they board that jet for Florida, can summer be far behind?

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

The inventor of the door knocker was notified that he won the "no-bell prize." When asked by reporters what he thought about it he said, "I don't give a rap."

My wife Kathy has a subtle way of telling me that I'm getting fat. She shouted to me today, "Do you mind shutting off that darn TV and 'waddle' over here and help me hang these drapes?" I think our marriage is breaking up. I asked her "Kathy, what must I give you for a little kiss?" She gave me a one word answer, "Cloveform." My cousin Angelo Quaganti is very observant. "Woodchipper," he said, "your wife is so bowlegged you sure don't have to buy any talcum powder for her."

Congratulations to Arnold Berger, chairman of the Reading Christmas Lighting Fund, for that spectacular display of Christmas Lights. The public spirited citizens who voluntarily donated time, effort, and most of all funds are also commended for making Christmas bright for thousands of people.

I don't know of anything that warmed me more than the Christmas Concert with the Interfaith Choir. The true meaning of the "Spirit of Brotherly Love," was clearly demonstrated by the presence of Fr. George Croft, O.M.I., Rev. Stephen Melius, of the Tewksbury United Methodist Church, Paul Millen, Congregational Church, and the Rev. Thomas Rice of the First Baptist Church all of Tewksbury. The only choir that I could sing with wanted me on one condition; that I sing "solo,"—so low that no one could hear me.

Wilmington High School students of the month of November were Chris Athanasia and Tina Allan. For December, Lisa Cutone and Frank Dinsmore. Congratulations. They are not only great scholars but they excel also in sports. I didn't graduate in the top half of my class. I was one of those who made the top half possible.

A teacher with a lot of class. That describes a wonderful lady, Rosamond Robinson, who has retired after 35 years of truly dedicated service is a teacher in the Stoneham Public School system. I loved my teacher so much, I stayed another year in the fourth grade. I recall that I did the same in the seventh grade.

Everytime I see or read about Robert Skelley, President of Stoneham Lumber Company, I feel lucky that I'm writing Woodchips. Folks, it's because of this column that I have met many, many wonderful people like Bob Skelley. Here are a few of them, Oscar Jacobson and Arthur Marino, of Stoneham, Larz Fred Neilson and Ed Sargent of Wilmington, Suzie Arlen and Patricia Foley of Tewksbury, Peter Aloisi and Russ Rebidue of Lynnfield, Kathy Smith and Margie Lynn Stratton of North Reading, Bill Cerritani and Connie Johnson of Wakefield, Frs. John Crispo and Martin Ryan, S.J., of St. Margaret's Church in Burlington and Vin and Ruth Harrington of Reading.

The visiting priest stopped in the middle of his sermon and signaled to the usher, "in the second row," he whispered, "there's a man sound asleep; wake him up." "That's not fair. You wake him up; you put him to sleep."

An African big game hunter was giving a lecture. During the question period, Frank Mazzoni, of Wilmington, asked, "sir, is it true that wild animals will not attack or harm any person carrying a flaming torch?" "It all depends," answered the famous hunter, "on how fast the person can run carrying the torch."

Louis O'Malley of Winchester took his lovely wife Gail out to dinner. When Lou was walking out the waiter asked, "How did you find the steak sir?" "Oh," Lou replied, "It was easy, I just moved the potato and there it was."

Truthfully, you in the workforce, if you had to hire a person, would you hire yourself?"

Please don't keep depositing "Today's to be lived and enjoyed, Tomorrow you may end up with a collection of disappointed yesterdays."

I asked Forest (Woody) Knowles, of Burlington, why he gets a good night's sleep, "do you count sheep Woody?" "No," he replied, "I talk to the shepherd."

"Laugh and the world laughs with you. Cry and the world laughs at you."

Danny MacMastered boarded a bus for Boston then asked a gentleman, "Pardon me sir, are you reading the paper you're sitting on?"

Tell your boss what you think of him and the "truth will set you free." The boss caught Johnny Nowak reading the newspaper during the working hours. He tapped him on the shoulder and said, "John, when you come to the Want-Ads, start taking notes."

The worst thing that can happen to June graduates and their parents is to depart the ceremonies filled with hope, enthusiasm, and expectations and go home in a cab driven by a PHD.

I wonder if the handsome Spike Boyle can issue a policy for my pet frog in case it croaks?

I asked Howie Murphy, "What's the height of stupidity?" "I don't know Woodchipper," he said, "how tall are you?"

Ella Wheeler Wilcox said it well, "Some ships sail East and some sail West with the self same winds that blow. It isn't the gale but the set of the sails that tells you the way you'll go."

I told Charles Davis, a Celtics fan from Tewksbury, "Basketball players never die, they sit in front of me at the movies."

Lenny Flesher of Leonard Furniture in Woburn, has personality plus. I told Lenny that I worked part-time as a furniture salesman.

I sold a footstool to a chiropractor, a decon's bench to a church in Burlington and a coffee table to a lunch room in Stoneham.

The Grand Canyon was started when a Scotsman lost a penny in a ditch.

The plumber repaired the basement pipes and then told the lady of the house, "you can avoid future trouble by doing one thing." "Oh what's that," she asked. "Hide your husband's wrenches."

Being frank and earnest can get a person in a heap of trouble, especially if he is Frank in Woburn and Ernest in Burlington.

My wife Kathy missed her usual afternoon nap today, she slept right through it.

Charity without love is like a cart without a horse; it can't move.

Thank you Priscilla, Eric, JoAnn, Ginny, Charlene, Bobbie, Jane and Linda, of the Kenneth Iveser Ins. of North Reading for the frameable poem, "The Night Before Christmas," in the North Reading Transcript.

Austin Prep Russian classes visit Capital

Several local students from the Russian classes of Austin Preparatory School recently took part in an educational field trip to Washington, D.C., where they were able to see at first hand how U.S. government officials are dealing with the aftermath of this fall's summit meeting between President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev.

James Smith of Reading, Jason Craven of North Reading, Matthew Boyle of Burlington, and Stephen Ramsay and Eric Szmyt of Tewksbury flew to the nation's capital with their Austin Russian teacher.

JASON CRAVEN of North Reading was among the Austin Prep Russian students visiting the nation's capital. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Craven of Takoma Circle. A sophomore at the local prep school, he is a second-year Russian student and an active member of the Russian Club.

Taking stock of eating habits

With the holiday season over, it's a good time to begin to take stock of eating habits. One important question to ask is, "Do I have too much sodium in my diet?" Believing that most Massachusetts residents consume too much sodium, the state Department of Public Health (DPH) has two words of advice: cut down.

To underscore the importance of watching sodium intake, DPH has issued a new brochure, "Sodium: The Hidden Danger." The brochure, written by Deputy Commissioner Dr. Stephen Havas for DPH's Center for Health Promotion and Environmental Disease Prevention, examines the sodium content of various foods, bottled and tap water, and medications, and offers recommendations on how to cut down on sodium intake.

"This brochure, whose content has been approved by the Center's Scientific Advisory Committee, reflects the Department's ongoing commitment to providing the public with information on the common risk factors associated with the leading causes of death in Massachusetts," said Dr. Havas, a chronic disease prevention specialist.

"Most people consume much more sodium than is either necessary or healthy," he continued. Recent scientific evidence has identified the key role of excess sodium consumption in the development of high blood pressure. About one-third of all Massachusetts adults have high blood pressure; 60 percent of those over age 65 have this condition. A substantial portion of high blood pressure could be prevented if all people consumed less sodium.

"Based upon the scientific evidence," said Dr. Havas, "we encourage everyone to concentrate their efforts on reducing sodium in their food."

To minimize the risk from excess sodium, DPH recommends the following:

Cut down on the intake of high sodium processed foods.

Don't add salt during cooking. Use spices instead.

Don't add salt at the table. Use herbs and spices, lemon juice, or vinegar to help add flavor to a meal.

Cut down on consumption of fast foods.

To obtain a copy of the free brochure, call the Massachusetts Nutrition Resource Center toll free at 1-800-322-7203; or write: Sodium Brochure, Massachusetts Nutrition Resource Center, 150 Tremont Street, 7th Floor, Boston, Mass. 02111

At the International Communications Agency the students were given a tour of Voice of America headquarters. They were able to watch and listen as live broadcasts were made to the Soviet Union in Russian and Ukrainian. The news portion of the broadcasts focused on the recent summit meeting. After the regular tour the Austin group was given a private briefing by a personnel officer, an American woman of Russian descent.

The Austin group also had an appointment with the editor-in-chief of America Illustrated. This monthly magazine is published in Russian by the U.S. government for distribution in the Soviet Union. This is possible because of an agreement with the Soviet government, which distributes Soviet Life in this country.

Editor-in-chief Robert Poteete explained to the boys all the stages of producing the magazine as he led them around the building and introduced them to editors, translators, lay-out designers, and photographers, each of whom spoke briefly with the group. At that time the magazine employees were working to put together a special supplement on the Geneva summit. The Austin students were shown a number of unpublished photographs of the meetings and of the President's subsequent address to the nation. They were also shown how the magazine, in cooperation with Voice of America, deals with the problems of making transcripts and translations of the various speeches involved, and prepares them for print.

On a visit to the Slavic Room at the Library of Congress the Austin students met a curator of the collection, who showed them the resources and rare treasures available to scholars there. At dusk, the group attended a vespers service at St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox Cathedral. The officiating priest, Father Dmitry Grigorieff, is a well-known Dostoevsky scholar, and professor at nearby Georgetown University.

The group later visited Georgetown, the nation's oldest Catholic university which exhibits Byzantine art treasures. In Georgetown the group also dined at the bistro "Au Pied de Cochon", which had recently gained national attention as the scene of Soviet defector Yurchenko's dramatic defection.

For evening entertainment the Austin students attended a musical comedy at Ford's Theatre. On the twenty-second anniversary of President Kennedy's death the group visited Arlington National Cemetery and the Lee-Curtis Mansion. At President Kennedy's gravesite they unexpectedly met Stephen Thompson, a 1977 graduate of Austin Prep who is now an army officer and member of the President's Honor Guard.

"LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL"

A word about our business philosophy: We feel there are three key ingredients that make a fun time. The Disc Jockey, the music and most important of all - you! At our company we try never to lose sight of this fact and our years of experience have taught us that when you do a good job you'll be rewarded with new business. Yes, price is important but as with all things in life it certainly shouldn't be the deciding factor. While we possess some of the most modern equipment available including lights etc., it's really the music that makes the night, which is one reason we do not use pre-recorded tapes or other props - just records, literally thousands at your disposal. Our musical format includes songs from the 20's right up to today's hits. Naturally references are available and we've been critically acclaimed in Boston Globe Magazine and you'll also find us in Boston Magazine as well as local publications. By the way, no party is too large or small, we do them all - from a house full to a hall full. We are also the wedding specialists. So there you have it. Great music and good times. Isn't that what your next function should be? "Let the Good Times Roll". We play the music of your life. Call Paul Lazzara at 944-4617. You'll be glad you did!

PART-TIME Seasonal Data Transcribers

Make 1986 A Better Year

With all the extra expenses winter brings (Christmas bills, ski vacations, college tuition?) it's hard to afford too much free time. But now you can turn 24 or 30 of those hours each week into dollars with the IRS during our busy tax filing season. Our Andover Service Center, at Routes 93 and 133 (Exit 43), is hiring part-time seasonal Data Transcribers for immediate and future openings—jobs that pay well and require no experience. Here's all you have to do:

1. Pass a very basic Civil Service Data Transcriber Test
2. Complete our paid Data Training Program
3. Choose your schedule:
Monday-Friday, 6 PM to 12:30 AM;
Sunday-Tuesday, 4:30 PM to 1 AM;
Wednesday-Friday, 4:30 PM to 1 AM.

You'll earn $5.49 per hour plus 10% night differential after 6 PM and incentive pay based on performance (half of our data employees get incentive pay every payday). U.S. Citizenship required.

APPLY NOW! Early applicants will have the best opportunity for selection of available shifts.

The IRS's Andover Service Center also offers generous benefits, including sick leave, paid holidays and free parking.

Start earning money for those winter bills by signing up today. For more information, call us collect at (617) 681-5627. Or come to the Andover Service Center any Thursday by 6 PM sharp for the Civil Service Test. No appointment is necessary!
